

I really enjoy XM radio, for which they provide a nationwide service that cannot be filled by local stations, ie wheather and traffic. All of which I pay for. Clearly NAB feels threatned by XM's success, as well they should. However, we subscribers pay for this unique and valuable service. Maybe they should try to compete, not legislate XM out of business.